TO ANY INTERESTED COMPANY

I'm excited to be applying for the open position Systems specialist – computer systems at TO ANY INTERESTED COMPANY. The prospect of putting my problem-solving skills, data analysis skills, and knowledge of computer networking programming, and other computer skills to work in your organization presents me with an incredible opportunity for personal growth and professional. Since I'm already motivated to work diligently and creatively in this role, I believe I can be trusted to complete projects on time and do the best job I'm capable of as a member of TO ANY INTERESTED COMPANY IT team.

Being a Programmer Analyst requires a series of specific skills and talent that combines proficiency in programming and database management and interpersonal skills. My previous work history shows that I have strengths in all these areas. In the past, I worked as Systems Analyst at the Clinic of The National Police of Colombia. This job gave me an extremely broad base of technical knowledge covering multi-Language programming, server administration, security information and regular interaction with customers helping them solve their technical problems.

From there I went to work in several companies in Colombia in the information and communication technology sector in various positions such as technical support in systems for the maritime company Naves S.A.S and more recently with the SENA National Learning Center in Colombia in charge as an instructor with the objective of training students in various areas of technology such as networks, computer programming, graphic design, computer security among other areas of information technology making use of my knowledge skills acquired during the last 5 years of experience acquired in Colombia with extensive skills in database administration, information security, computer programming as well as excellent interpersonal skills and a great ability to adapt and learn to new work environments.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration. To lend my skills to the excellent IT team at TO ANY INTERESTED COMPANY is an extraordinary honor. I pride myself on always doing the best possible job of which I am capable, and I am sure that working with the excellent developer's professional at KONECT NLP AI INC, will only bring the best out of me. I look forward to proceeding further along with the hiring process and showing you what I can do for you.

Sincerely,

EDUARDO ESTIBEN MANJARRES BARROS
